

This message will most likely fall on deaf ears, but I think I will vent some. I expect the banks will get what they want, regardless of everyone in Indiana that has told you, and them, that they don't want to be called on the telephone for advertising, or soliciting purposes. It is very sad that no one has integrity anymore. Anyone in a position of authority in this world is up for sale. I wouldn't believe you are any different. The banks have lots of money, so I have no doubt they will get what they want, and you will get paid to give it to them. Do you feel like a prostitute? There is not much difference.
